Executive Summary

The Sooke Region extends along the Southwest coast of Vancouver Island and includes the District of Sooke and the unincorporated municipalities of East Sooke, Shirley, Jordan River and Port Renfrew as well as three First Nations Bands. The region is well known for its natural beauty, rural ambience and proud community engagement and has named itself, the “Volunteer Capital of Canada.”

The Cultural Plan provides a framework that identifies five key strategies that can be implemented over the next five years in order to create a healthy and vibrant arts, cultural, and heritage sector in the Sooke Region that will encourage everyone to participate, support and appreciate.

Moving forward from an economy that was recently based on resource extraction, particularly logging and fishing, the community is rapidly changing with a focus shifted towards tourism, community expansion and creative arts. The Cultural Plan provides clear direction on the actions and tasks to be undertaken in order to sustain the region’s rich history and passion for arts, culture and heritage that have been fundamental in guiding the community over the years.

The Plan’s short-term vision focuses on strengthening the cultural sector by creating clear leadership roles, building capacity, increasing collaborations and creating awareness. It seeks to encourage community expression and pride through promoting celebrations and festivals, and broadening the education and engagement for citizens of all ages in the arts.

Long-term direction in the Plan recommends supporting creative occupations, and designing and developing public art and infrastructure that reflects and celebrates the traditions of the community including the First Nation’s culture.

The Cultural Plan calls upon all partners – government, community and the private-sector to work together to enhance the quality of life for all citizens, establish a sense of pride, and create a shared identity as a region with a powerful draw to live, work, play, visit and create.

Defining Culture

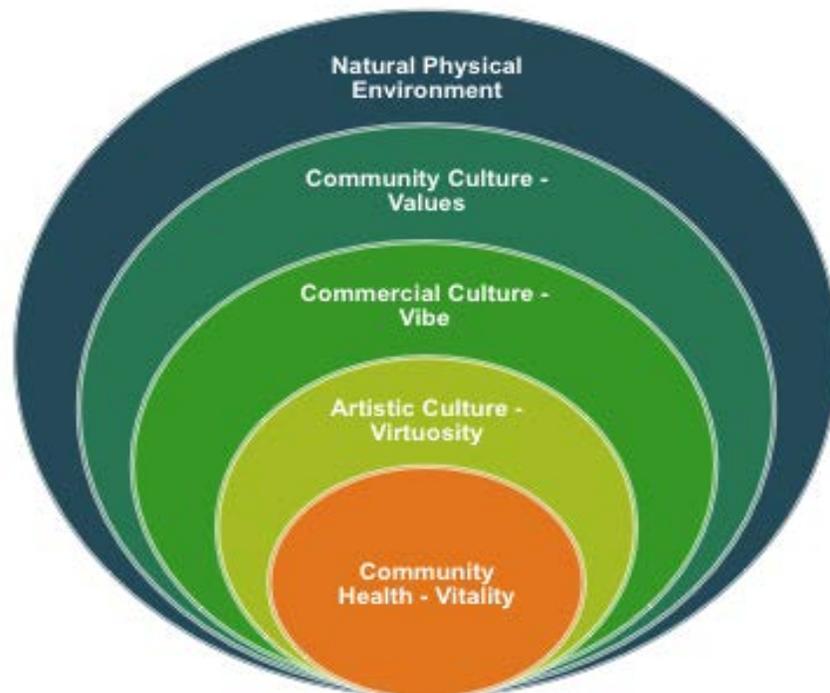

The natural physical environment of the region is a major driver to the culture of a community. Within the physical environment the culture of a community can be explained as Values, Vibe, Virtuosity and Vitality.²

Values include the identity, customs, memories, stories and beliefs that are experienced in celebrations, festivals, museums and heritage collections.

Vibe is the buzz that pours out into the street from the commercial aspects of the shops, restaurants, and historic and contemporary design.

Virtuosity refers to the expression of artistic excellence and appreciation of artistic merit as shared in music, drama, dance, visual arts, craft, sculpture, design, etc.

Vitality is an essential component to community health. Cultural Vitality is recognized as part of the four pillars of sustainability alongside of environmental responsibility, social equity and economic prosperity.

The Planning Process

Cultural Planning is used to identify how cultural resources and activities in a community can be used to achieve a broad set of municipal and regional strategic objectives. A Cultural Plan guides local government to integrate culture into policies and planning across all sectors of development; works to support and strengthen partnerships and collaboration with business and community partners; and builds capacity and cooperation across a wide range of activities and cultural organizations.

The Sooke Region Cultural Plan was initiated to serve as the starting point for discussions around developing a healthy arts community for the Sooke Region. A funding collaboration between the District of Sooke, Juan de Fuca Economic Development, Sooke Community Arts Council, Sooke Region Tourism and the Sooke Fine Arts Society enabled the Sooke Region to become one of a number of municipalities in BC to undertake a Cultural Plan as guided by 2010 Legacies Now and Creative City Network of Canada.

Cultural Mapping was the first important step in the planning process. Completed in August 2010, The ArtsWave Project undertook a systematic approach to conducting a series of surveys, interviews, and public consultations with residents, youth, businesses and arts and cultural organizations in the region. The Cultural Mapping project provided a community perspective on the strengths and challenges for the arts of the Region. The project also outlined a series of priorities that respondents expressed an interest in having addressed by local levels of government and arts organizations.

Cultural Planning is the second step in a process of inclusive community consultation and decision-making. The intention of the plan is to help identify cultural resources and to think strategically about how these resources can help the community to achieve its civic goals regarding arts and culture.

Community Engagement is the third step in the process designed to implement the Cultural Plan. The Plan will only succeed through effective collaboration, generating ideas and building a shared vision among staff and elected officials in local government, business and community groups, residents and youth of the region.

Vision and Guiding Principles

Cultural Plan Vision

The Sooke Region is a small coastal community that lies on the southern tip of Vancouver Island in British Columbia and has a population of approximately 13,500. To adapt successfully in its transformation from a resource-based economy, the community is faced with developing new strategies for social equity, economic stability, environmental responsibility, and cultural vitality. The Sooke Region's plans and actions in support of cultural vitality will be guided by the following vision:

Creating a healthy and vibrant arts, cultural, and heritage sector in the Sooke Region that will encourage everyone to participate, support and appreciate.

Guiding Principles

In advancing this vision, the Sooke Region Cultural Plan will be steered by the following principles:

1. Communication – support respectful, open, and honest communication amongst all community partners;
2. Diversity – respect equitably all elements of artistic, cultural and heritage initiatives in our community which are valuable sources of ideas, perspectives and talents;
3. Collaboration – work together in building partnerships and broadening dialogue with all community partners to advance mutual interests;
4. Community Ownership – ensure community input is sought, valued and recognized throughout the planning and implementation of the Cultural Plan;
5. Inclusiveness and Accessibility – where possible make cultural opportunities accessible to citizens and visitors across all part of the Sooke Region and relevant through all stages of life.

Strategic Directions and Actions

Through public surveys and consultation in the ArtsWave Project, the respondents overwhelmingly agreed that the natural beauty of the area attracts and inspires both residents and visitors alike. There was a strong sense of pride in the well-established volunteer organizations that provide both diversity in the number and high caliber of the quality of cultural opportunities. Nearly all participants (93%) stressed the value and importance of the arts to the social and economic health of the community. As well, the strong artistic presence of the local First Nations is felt by many to be an important characteristic of the local culture.

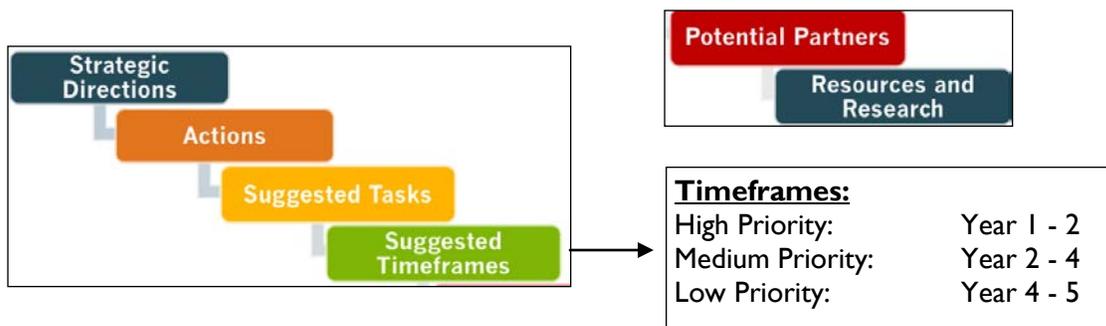

While there are clearly challenges facing the sustainability of local arts and heritage organization in the Sooke Region, the overall picture that emerges from the finding of the ArtsWave Project was that of an energetic, ambitious arts community that is eager to identify opportunities and foster collaboration in order to put itself on a sustainable footing for the benefit of all community members.

Participants in the ArtsWave Project identified specific priorities they believed should be addressed in order to bring about positive change and contribute to realizing a sense of cultural vibrancy for the Sooke Region.

From the priorities identified in ArtsWave, the Cultural Plan focused on five Strategic Directions:

1. Strengthen arts, cultural and heritage organizations;
2. Encourage community celebrations and festivals;
3. Expand youth opportunities in the arts;
4. Strengthen cultural infrastructure;
5. Secure greater connection with and visibility for First Nations artists and local regional artists.

The Strategic Directions are divided into a series of Actions and Tasks as explained using the following chart:

Strategic Direction #1

Strengthen Arts, Cultural and Heritage Organizations

Background

The Official Community Plan for the District of Sooke indicates arts and culture are intrinsic to the community identity. It educates, entertains, generates revenue and employment, and enhances the quality of life for all residents. Community cohesiveness can be strengthened through support for heritage, arts and culture, programs and services, facilities, activities and events that bring people together to create citizen involvement and community partnerships.

To improve the strength of arts organizations, stable funding is required to retain the staff and volunteers necessary to build capacity and create the foundation for growth. Without the stability to retain professional staff it is unlikely that organizations will be able to attract committed long term volunteers and undertake the process of strengthening programs, management and governance capacity. Creating organizational capacity will allow arts groups to realize creative and artistic opportunities and invigorate their organizations and leadership.

Strategic Direction #4

Strengthen Cultural Infrastructure

Background

Response from the surveys, interviews and public meetings of the ArtsWave Project indicated the Sooke Region is underserved by current cultural infrastructure and there is a growing need for spaces that are designed or renovated specifically to meet the requirements of this sector. Analysis by the Cultural Planning Task Force concluded that the multi party ownership of cultural facilities utilized by the various arts, cultural and heritage organizations makes it difficult to provide a coordinated approach to seek short-term solutions and improvements.

Local cultural identity can be reinforced and enhanced through the development of cultural infrastructure. Often times community facilities are built by bringing together municipal, regional, provincial, federal, philanthropic and private sectors for a “one-off” project. This approach reduces the financial burden to taxpayers and requires long-term leadership and expertise.

Action 4.1

Advocate and negotiate specific infrastructure upgrades to current arts, cultural, and heritage venues, as well as community and business facilities used for cultural activities, with facility landlords.

Task	Timeline
Task 4.1.1 Individual arts, cultural and heritage organizations should review measures with the ownership of various venues for repairs and upgrades to current assets such as improvements to sound systems, acoustics, electrical, parking, washrooms.	Medium Priority
Task 4.1.2 Assign the Cultural Planning Advisory Committee the task of meeting with the Edward Milne Community School (EMCS) Board of Directors and Sooke School District #62 to determine funding for upgrades to enhance the theatre facility at the local high school and community school.	Medium Priority
Task 4.1.3 Review the possibility of working with local businesses for creating a shared storage facility.	Medium Priority

Action 4.2

Advocate for a Community Arts Centre

Task	Timeline
Task 4.2.1 Seek expertise and leadership to identify a well-defined process for cultural facility development in the Sooke Region.	Medium Priority
Task 4.2.2 Create and maintain tracking tools (Cultural Resource Database) to integrate all cultural data to ensure current and reliable information is available for future infrastructure development.	Low Priority
Task 4.2.3 Pursue multi-party ventures and investment in the development of cultural infrastructure.	Low Priority
Task 4.2.4 Encourage budget allocations in five year financial plan and 3 year strategic plan for investment by the District of Sooke and Juan de Fuca Electoral Area to create capacity for cultural facility development in the Sooke Region.	Low Priority

Implementation and Accountability

The ArtsWave Project documented a very high level of interest in and appreciation for a wide range of artistic and heritage activities in the Sooke Region. Community satisfaction with the quality and quantity of cultural opportunities is high, as is the level of understanding of the importance of arts in maintaining the health of the community and community members. ArtsWave also revealed a strong desire to see more visible government recognition of the contributions of the arts to the social and economic health of the Region and more support for the cultural life of its communities. The energy and visionary actions of the people of the Region have helped establish an abundant cultural life; the ArtsWave participants suggest there is more the Region can, will and needs to accomplish by working collaboratively.

The Sooke Region Cultural Plan establishes a framework to guide the Sooke Region's support for the development of a dynamic cultural sector. The strategic directions and actions represent a multi-year agenda for the Region and its partners that will need to be integrated into budgets and work planning. Steps required for implementation will involve:

1. Communicating the Cultural Plan vision and recommended actions widely throughout the Region.
2. Approval by local government to confirm the Region's commitment to implementation of the plan over time through embracing it as a planning and policy priority.
3. Refining a leadership group to guide and support implementation of the Plan.

The Cultural Plan proposes the creation of a Cultural Planning Advisory Committee to guide the Plan into the future. This committee could amalgamate with the existing Sooke Program of the Arts Committee and be expanded to include representation from a wide range of partners and constituents of the District of Sooke and Juan de Fuca Electoral Area.

The Cultural Planning Advisory Committee would provide an appropriate mechanism to support effective and efficient implementation of the Plan and ongoing cultural development in the Region. The Committee would make recommendations to staff, Council and elected representatives on a wide range of areas including creation of public art, creative cultural industries and education, cultural tourism, and impact of arts and culture on public health, social and environmental planning.

Cultural Plan implementation costs for each upcoming year would be evaluated during the annual plan review and be brought forward as part of the District of Sooke and JdF Economic Development annual budget deliberations in the form of a new budget item for the coming year.
